Mac Alexander Macdonald, corporate trainer, national speaker and motivator brings a wealth of applicable experience to this wonderful book. Combining his many years as a teamster supervisor on the Alaska pipeline, film work in "Apocalypse Now", "Murder She Wrote" and numerous television commercials, director of personnel development, author and domestic violence counselor, some of the most respected companies and organizations have relied on Mac to enlighten their employees and inspire their conference attendees.

"This stimulating book delivers much more than is promised. For anyone in a supervisory position this is an easily-absorbed resource guide that thoroughly covers the concepts central to Emotional Intelligence. For the individual it offers new insights for personal fulfillment as well as a fresh take on established principles."

— Larry Reymore, Senior Program Leader, Context International

"Mac Macdonald is a master at casting off the shackles of jargon and providing us exactly what we must know about human behavior in all of our relationships. This is especially applicable in groups and the workplace. His on-the-forefront information is critical if we are to succeed in making this a better world."

— James Robert Huntley, Founder Council for a Community of Democracies

A leader's 'bible', "LIGHTING YOUR OWN FUSE" helps your employees, staffs, teams, association members and volunteers, even your own children understand exactly what is required if you, and they, are to prosper. Every person you lead, teach, counsel or supervise should be provided a copy of this remarkable glossary – A Glossary of Mission, Vision and Passion.
